

Prof. Grzegorz Janusz, Institute of Political and Administration Sciences, Department of Political Sciences and Journalism of the Maria Curie-Skłodowska University. The head of the Department of Political Systems and Human Rights, vice-chairman of the main board of the Polish Political Science Association (in the term of 2016 – now), member of scientific committees of Polish Academy of Sciences (2001-2004), member of Committee on Migration and Polonia Research of Polish Academy of Science (2007-2010), member of Political Sciences Committee of Polish Academy of Sciences (in the term of 2015-now). Research interests: human rights, the rights of national minorities, political system legitimization, EU law, administrative law. Scientific internships: internship in Institut für Zeitgeschichte, München (2002); internship in Ústav pro soudobé dějiny Akademie věd České republiky, Praha (2002). Practical experience: 1975–1977, trainee judge. Author of more than 120 scientific publications and popular science publications concerning above mentioned topics, including four monographs, eight other books, 93 scientific articles and chapters in collective publications (including 13 publications in English, German, Russian, Czech and Hungarian languages). Author of 41 expertises on request of the Chancellery of the Sejm, the Senate Chancellery, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the Ministry of Internal Affairs and Administration of the Supreme Chamber of Control (NIK), the Central Statistical Office (GUS) and other institutions. A manager of Jean Monnet Project 2002 - File No. C02/0096. The main researcher of two international grants, coordinated by Institut für Zeitgeschichte, München (2001 – 2004)

and Faculty of Law Uppsala University (2002-2004). Doctoral advisor in 21 doctoral dissertation in the field of human rights, the rights of national minorities, EU law, political systems.