

Jan Brzozowski, Professor at the Jagiellonian University, Head of the Department of Social Change Research in Europe. Economist, PhD in the discipline of economics and finance. Research interests: international migration, immigrant and ethnic entrepreneurship, socio-economic adaptation of immigrants, return migrants and refugees, transnationalism, multiculturalism. Postdoctoral fellowship at Università Politecnica delle Marche (2015-2016). Functions: Head of the Department of Social Change Research in Europe, Deputy Chairman of the Migration Research Committee of the Polish Academy of Sciences member of the Demographic Sciences Committee of the Polish Academy of Sciences, member of the editorial board of Entrepreneurial Business and Economics Review, editor-in-chief of the journal Studia Migracyjne - Przegląd Polonijny. Participation in research projects: Refugee entrepreneurship and socio-economic adaptation: the case of Ukrainians in Kraków agglomeration (OPUS, DEC-2022/45/B/HS5/02952) - Scientific Coordinator; Migration Crisis in Latin America – coping and adaptation strategies of Venezuelan migrants and their families and the risk of global migration crisis [acronym: MICALCAS, NCN Opus], 2022-2025, investigator responsible for quantitative methods; FUME: Future Migration Scenarios for Europe, Horizon 2020 (call: H2020-SC6-MIGRATION-2018-2019-2020), project activity 2019-2023, manager of Polish part of consortium and principal investigator; Transnational Action to advance Skills and competences FOR COmmunity engagement and social Migrants Entrepreneurship – TASKFORCOME (Scientific Coordinator of Consortium, Interreg CE, 2019-2021); Do firms learn from crisis? Comparing firm organisational learning to business model rigidity (principal investigator, Università Politecnica delle Marche, Ancona, 2015-2016).

