

Kamila Maria Sierzputowska – Ph.D., in the field of political sciences with specialty international relations. Assistant Professor of the Department of Political and Administrative Systems, Faculty of Political Science and Administration, Kazimierz Wielki University in Bydgoszcz, Poland. Rector's Plenipotentiary for the protection of classified information Rector's Commission for Promotion and Cooperation. She researches on cybersecurity, cyber resilience, cyberstability and international relations, issues regarding the challenges facing North Atlantic Treaty Organisation and international security. Its research also applies to Estonia as a pioneer of digitization in public administration, especially in the field of e-administration and cyber security. She is an author of many publications on those topics, chiefly articles in Polish and international journals and chapters of monographs. She is the managing editor of the "Transformation Through Training" - Joint Force Training Centre NATO Magazine in which she also publishes on topics related to Estonian soft power in international relations. She is an active member of international and national political associations and participates in global discussion on digital state and cybersecurity. Has in her achievements various internships and scientific visits in countries, among the others: Italy, Slovakia, Israel and Türkiye, and also participated in numerous scientific conferences in Poland and abroad. In addition, she participated in various workshops and also conducts training for NATO institutions in communication and political system. She is also a coordinator of international internships for students at NATO Military Police Centre of Excellence, and has experience in managing and implementing projects financed from public funds.