

Prof. UJ dr hab. Krzysztof Koźbiał, Institute of European Studies, Jagiellonian University in Kraków. Vice-Dean for Human Resources at the Faculty of International and Political Studies, Jagiellonian University. Professor Koźbiał completed his doctoral studies at the Jagiellonian University, and in 2006 received the degree of Doctor of Humanities in history on the basis of the dissertation “The Czech and German minority in the Kłodzko region in the years 1945-60”. Since 2016 he is Associate Professor (in political science) at the Jagiellonian University. He has been a visiting professor at several universities, including the Technische Universität in Chemnitz, Universität in Leipzig (Germany), Matej Bel University in Banská Bystrica, the University of Presov (both Slovakia), Peter Pazmany Catholic University in Piliscsaba, the University of Pecs (both Hungary) and University in Belgrad. His research interests include issues related to political systems, foreign and domestic policy of European micro-states and Central European countries (especially the Czech Republic, Slovakia, Germany) as well as the process of EU enlargement towards the Balkans. He has held scholarships from Erasmus (studies in Heidelberg), DAAD (stay at Ruhr-Universität in Bochum), SYLLF (research in Polish and Czech archives), Karl Renner Institute (stay in Vienna), the Scholarship and Training Fund of the European Economic Area Financial Mechanism and the Norwegian Financial Mechanism (research stays in Liechtenstein) and Excellence Initiative - Jagiellonian University (2 research stays in Prague and in Belgrade).