

Magdalena Lesińska-Staszczuk, Ph.D., assistant professor at the Department of Political Systems and Human Rights, Institute of Political and Administrative Sciences, Political and Journalism Faculty, Maria Skłodowska - Curie University. Scientific interests: human rights in the European Union, women's rights, discrimination based on various criteria (gender, age, religion, racial, national and ethnic origin). Author of publications on the EU, women`s rights and discrimination in the modern world. She organized workshops and expert meetings for students as part of cooperation with the Europe Direct, a Regional Center for International Debate and foundations working to build civil society.