

Prof. dr hab. Maria Marczevska-Rytko, Rytko is full professor of political science and religious studies. She is a head of Political Movements and Ethnic Research Department at Faculty of Political Science and Journalism, Maria Curie-Skłodowska University in Lublin, Poland and a vice President of RC21 on Political Socialization and Education of IPSA (a President of RC21 2012-2018). Her main areas of research include populism, direct democracy, political and social movements, religion and politics, political marketing, and European integration. She has been a head in 2 research grants financed by International Visegrad Fund: Practical Aspects of Civic Participation and Referendum in the Visegrad Group Countries after 1989, (2017-2018); Civic Budget in V4 Countries, (2019-2021); 2 research grants from National Science Centre (NCN): Direct Democracy in Central and Eastern Europe after 1989. The Formal-Legal and Practical Aspects (2015-2018); The 2024 Elections to the European Parliament in the Visegrad Group Countries. Continuity and Change in Time of Uncertainty (2024-2026); Ministry of Science and Higher Education, Religion and Politics: feedback (2004-2006). She has been a MC member in COST: CA21141 Grassroots of Digital Europe: from Historic to Contemporary Cultures of Creative Computing; CA17135 Constitution-making and deliberative democracy, and CA15221 Advancing effective institutional models towards cohesive teaching, learning, research and writing development. She has also participated in Lane Kirkland Programme (as a tutor), Sciex (as a home mentor); Erasmus Programme (University of Antwerp; South-West University „Rilski Neofit“; University of Iceland; University of Lisbon); Stefan Batory Foundation (Central European University in Budapest, Peace Institute in Ljubljana); American Academy of Religion (Philadelphia); Universitair Centrum Sint-Ignatius Antwerpen (UCSIA). She is a chief editor of “Annales UMCS, Sectio K Politologia” (peer-reviewed journal).