

Wojciech J. Kosior, Ph.D., LL.M. – public prosecutor, currently Deputy District Prosecutor for the city of Rzeszów, also acting as Coordinator for Combating Crimes Committed out of Hate. Academic employee of the Institute of Legal Sciences at the University of Rzeszów. Author of several dozen scientific publications and participant of many national and international scientific conferences. He gained scientific and didactic experience, among others, at universities in the United States of America, Great Britain, Italy, Spain, Turkey, Slovakia and Ukraine, where he held internships, conducted research and gave lectures. His professional experience included internships at the prosecutor's office in Berlin, the Centre for Combating Hate and the Ministry of Justice in Dresden. Two-time scholarship holder of the Polish Academy of Sciences (Scholarships of the Lanckoroński Foundation and the Brzezie Lanckoroński Foundation), project manager of the National Science Centre. Member of scientific societies, among others elected as Associate Fellow at the Royal Historical Society in London. His research interests are mainly in the history of law, in particular Roman law, but also in contemporary criminal law and criminal procedure.

